FRENCH radicals control the government, having got rid of Tardieu, semi-conservative. If France makes that fuss about 300-000 idle, what would she do if eight millions were out of work?

IN MANCHURIA, Japan's forces, crowded by hordes of poorly organized Chinese, are pressing close to Russia's border and "the soviet government is gravely anxious."

AT NAGASAKI Japan, the United States consulate was bombed, just before noon yesterday, supposedly from a passing automobile. The fire was put out, nobody hurt. That doesn't make this government
"gravely anxious," but it should remind us to keep our defense apparatus in good order
and not to tie ourselves up in any world court.

MANY people in this world are worth while, although they rarely appear in print on newspaper front pages. Mrs. E. Ozanne of New York
lost her pocketbook, containing,
$18.83, borrowed to pay her rent.
Matthew Horan, conductor of a Fifth ave. omnibus, found the purse
on the floor of his omnibus and returned it to the loser. She sent him $3 "for his honesty," writing,
"As you could see by the papers in my bag, I had not paid my rent
in three months. I wish I could send you three times as much, but I have been out of work for seven months and I have a boy to support. I cried all night when I lost
the money."

Matthew Horan returned the $3,
with "Your thanks are sufficient reward."

MERCHANTS, new papers
and the public are interested in proof of the fact that it pays to advertise energetically, when you offer what the people want.
This was demonstrated in Boston last week by a department store advertising a sale
for last Saturday.

The general manager of the store published on Friday a 12-page advertising section in a Boston newspaper.

The general manager knows
that it does not pay to whisper,
if you can afford to shout, and
sales for the day were above $225,000, compared with a sale
of $56,000 for the same event
a year ago.

Advertising pays, if you know
how, have the goods, and use
the right medium.

Kirk to Approve
Road Work Bills

LISBON, May 10.—Township
trustees have been given $1,000 for each township in the county for secondary road construction, but it has been indicated that all bills contracted by trustees on these road projects must first be approved by County Surveyor Lloyd C.
Kirk before being paid.

Appropriation of this money for secondary road purposes was agreed to by the county commissioners several months ago. Roads are to be improved in the several townships
that have a connection with main
or improved highways.

500 ORDERED TO PAY ROAD COST
IN COURT EDICT

$113,610 In Assessments
Must Be Collected,
Oglevee Rules

OPINION GIVEN
IN FOUR CASES

Actions Represent Property Owners On Four County Highways

LISBON, May 10.—In an opinion
handed down today by Judge J. C.
Oglevee of Carroll county, special assessments levied following the improvement of four highways in this county, and totaling $113,610,
have to be paid. The court held that plaintiffs in four actions, and representing hundreds of other property owners living along these four highways, have "foreclosed
their right of appeal to a court of equity."

500 Property Owners Concerned

More than 500 property owners
are concerned in the opinion of Judge Oglevee, who was assigned here to hear these cases. The petitions sought a restraining order
against the county commissioners,
county auditor and county treasurer to delay the collection of special assessments for the improvement of the Lisbon-Salineville road; R. W. Armstrong, representing property owners on the Elkton-Clarkson road; Howard L. Zuch, for himself and others residing on the East Liverpool-East Palestine
road, and Kim Crawford for himself and others residing on the Rogers section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road.

Holds Time Had Elapsed

The county was represented by Prosecuting Attorney John E.
Bauknecht, who, from the beginning, held that the numerous plaintiffs could seek no relief under the petitions filed for the reason that the time had elapsed for filing objections to assessments
with the county commissioners as provided by law.

Judge Oglevee in his opinion held that the relief sought by the plaintiffs for themselves and others
must be denied on three grounds:
First, because there is not sufficient
proof of a gross abuse of discretion
of the commissioners in making a

PRAYER URGED
BY EVANGELIST

72-Year-Old Bud Robinson Speaks In Salem Church

That the need of the American churches is an old-fashioned Holy Ghost revival and that the need of the nation is praying mothers who make their children behave, is the opinion of Bud Robinson, 72-year-old California evangelist, widely known in this section, who spoke to a large audience at the Church of the Nazarene Monday evening.

Rev. Delbert Palmer of Warren assisted in the service. Mrs. Palmer accompanied him. She is a former Salem resident.

Builds "Platform"

Evangelist Robinson built a "platform" in which he used for his
"planks" these quotations: "God cannot lie." "The Scripture cannot be broken." "All scripture is given by inspiration of God." "Search the scriptures for these are they which testify of Christ."

He used for his sermon theme
"And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things,
may abound to every good work."

Tells of Transformation

The evangelist, who is a souther-ner, is unique in the delivery of his message. He related that "when I met Jesus at the age of 20 years
I was ragged and unable to read a word." He told of the transforming power of the gospel of Jesus Christ in his life. Now at the age of 72
he has traveled around the world
and has written several books.

He expects to visit several of the churches in this district and will speak at Canton tonight.

Raise-'em-Right
4-H Club Convenes

Raise-'Em-Right 4-H club met
at Fairview schoolhouse Tuesday evening, May 3. The leader, Willis Zimmerman, gave out literature to the members who had decided the projects they would take. The club organized a ball team of which Joe Doyle is captain. The next meeting will be at Fairview schoolhouse, May 17.

workmen after 4,000 volts passed through his body while he was working near a high tension wire.

Mrs. Hoover Will Be Guest
As Wooster Honors "Queen"

WOOSTER, May 10.—Although Miss Elma Sage, of Marion, will be Wooster college's eighth May queen,
she is the only one in that long line
whose coronation will be watched
by the wife of the president of the United States.

Mrs. Herbert C. Hoover, wife of the president, will come to Wooster next Saturday morning, May 14. As a part of the annual Color day ceremonies Mrs. Hoover will be given the honorary degree of doctor of humanities by college authorities.

In the afternoon Mrs. Hoover will be the guest of honor at the historical pageant, celebrating the 125th founding of the city in which some of Mrs. Hoovers ancestors had a part.

Miss Sage will be crowned May queen by Miss Carolyn Gustafson, of Lakewood, Woosters 1931 May queen.

Miss Louise Perry of Newark will be the maid of honor. Among Miss Sage's attendants will be Miss Sara Wishart, daughter of President and Mrs. Charles F. Wishart, of Wooster college, and Miss Jeannette Findley, of Turtle Creek, Pa.

Under the direction of Miss Kathleen Lowrie, head of the department of physical education for women, a student cast of 300 will stage "The Pageant in Pattern"
which depicts Goethe's theory of the art of poetry.

Battles Snow In
Trip From Coast

R. L. Burton, octogenarian residing on the Goshen rd., has returned from California where he spent the winter and today tells of the many difficulties encountered
while attempting to drive through snowstorms in western states.

Burton related that he left California on April 19 but was held up for a number of days by severe snowstorms in Arizona and other states. A broken axle and road conditions forced them to abandon the automobile in Denver, Colo.,
the trip being made to Chicago by bus.

Burton said that temperature reports in The Salem News, which was mailed to him, enabled him to compare weather reports with those in Pasadena, Calif. On many days,
he said, the temperature in Salem
was warmer than that of the coast
city.

Windows Broken
As Lightning Hits

Windows in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Darlington, Depot rd., a short distance from the city, were broken when a large locust tree in their yard was struck by lightning
during the electrical storm in this vicinity last evening.

The tree was torn to pieces by the bolt and a part of it lodged in the side of the barn on a property
near the Darlington home, according to reports. Windows in the home next to Darlington's were also broken.

Mr. Darlington is confined to his bed by illness and glass was showered over his head. He sustained a light cut on one hand, it is reported.

S. F. Kemper Dies

CINCINNATI, May 10.—S. Frederick Kemper, Jr., whose family established the Famous Lane seminary here 100 years ago, died yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

20 TO COMPETE
IN HIGH SCHOOL
LITERARY MEET

Annual C. T. Brooks Contests To Be Held Friday

LIST PRIZES IN FOUR DIVISIONS

Donor of $100 In Cash
Awards Expected To Attend

The annual C. T. Brooks literary contests, involving 20 Salem High school students in competition for cash prizes totalling $100, will be held at the high school auditorium
at 1:30 p. m. Friday, Wilbur J.
Springer, principal, announce today.

Contests In Four Divisions

Contests will be held in short stories, poetry, essays and orations
with $15 being awarded for first prizes, $7.50 for second and $2.50 for third in each division. Another award of $1 will be given to the student whose composition is adjudged the best of the entire group.

The Brooks contests are held annually through a contribution of $100 made to the school by Atty
Charles T. Brooks of Salem and Cleveland. Atty Brooks plans to attend the contests Friday. It will be the first time that he has been a spectator in the competition he made possible, school officials said.

Three judges will be in charge of the ward of prizes to winning students. They will be C. Edward Bender, superintendent of Colum-biana public schools; John Stephenson of East Liverpool, and Miss Gertrude Ploufs, dean of girls at Alliance High school.

List Contenders

The list of competing students
selected to participate in the contests from a field of more than 300
entries follows:

Short Stories — Charles Gibson,
Betty Ulicny, Kathryn Knepper,
Jean Olinhausen and Viola Bodo.

Poems — Thelma Affolter, Sara
Spiker, Ted Visser, Anna Wagner
and James West.

Essays — Mary Burke, LaVerda
Capel, Mary Louise Miller, Mary
Louise Scullion, Albert Allen.

Orations — Jack Ballantine, Alfred Paxson, Robert Snyder, Lewis
Briskin and John Paul Olloman.

GASTON MEANS
FACES 2 COUNTS

Named In Indictments for Larceny and Embezzlement

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 10.—Boston
B. Means, self-styled intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnaping, was indicted today for larceny and embezzlement of $104,000 from Mrs.
Edwina B. McLean, estranged wife of the Washington Post publisher.

The district of Columbia grand jury returned two indictments
charging the spectacular ex-convict and former government detective
with having fraudulently diverted and secreted a $100,000 "ransom fund" and $4,000 for "expenses of the kidnaping."

Means had been employed by Mrs. McLean to effect return of the kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. He has admitted receiving the $100,000, but maintains that after Mrs. McLean demanded it, he gave it to a mysterious stranger who he believed was an authorized representative of Mrs. McLean.

Husband Queried
In Wife's Death

(By Associated Press)
MILLERSBURG, O., May 10.—Efforts to solve the murder of Mrs.
Gertrude Meeker, 18, whose nude body was found in a small stream
near here, centered today on a prolonged questioning of her husband, Herbert, 23.

Although Meeker's automobile was found blood-stained near the body,
and a similarly discolored shirt was discovered in his Wayne county
home, he insisted he knew nothing of the crime.

The body, with skull crushed, was found early yesterday by a Holmes county farm hand. The automobile was partly demolished against a tree. Officers said it appeared to have been wrecked purposely.

1,600 Are Facing
Landslide Threat

(By Associated Press)
LYONS, France, May 10.—Land-slides, similar to those which demolished two apartment houses
here Sunday and buried two score
people in the wreckage, threatened
the 1,600 inhabitants of St. Genix-Furquiers 300 miles east of here
today.

Several slides, in which more than 1,000,000 tons of earth and rocks tumbled down, sent the people scrambling down the mountainside. Three houses and 1,000 trees were flattened.

County Sportsmen
Hear Ray Lawrence

Ray Lawrence of Youngstown,
president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, addressed members of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association in a meeting at Placencia Lake hotel
near North Georgetown, Monday night.

Lawrence discussed conservation
and work of the Ohio league.

Twenty-five members of the county league were present. The next meeting will be held in Wells-ville city hall on June 6.

Wet-Dry Problem

Governor, Senator Battles Loom Prominently In Spotlight

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., May 10.—Prohibition was the dominant issue in Ohio's statewide primaries today.
While economic conditions figured in the campaigns for nomination for virtually every office, including governor and United States senator, the wet and dry question
held the spotlight.

With fair weather in prospect, a million voters were expected to visit
the polls, open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

Preference Vote Formality

Voters were called upon to name their presidential preference, but this vote was only a formality since it is not binding on the delegates to the national conventions. Seeking the empty honor in the Republican presidential preferential contest were "General" Jacob M.
Coxey, mayor of Massillon and leader of an unemployment march
to Washington three decades ago;
Joseph I. France of Maryland, outspoken foe of President Hoover, and Olin J. Ross, Columbus attorney.

LEBRUN NAMED
FRENCH CHIEF

Veteran Statesman Suc-
ceeds Slain President
Droumer

(By Associated Press)

VERSAILLES, May 10.—Albert
Francois Lebrun, the favorite son of the Department of Meurthe and Moselle—the Ohio of France—was elected fourteenth president of France today by an overwhelming majority to succeed the assassinated
Paul Doumer.

M. Lebrun received 633 votes out of a total of 767 cast.

Socialist Is Second

Paul Faure, prominent Socialist leader, got 114 votes; 12 ballots were cast for former Premier Paul Pain-leve and eight went to Marcel Cachin, Socialist. Fifty-nine of the legislators who attended the joint senate and chamber session at which the president was elected expressed no choice.

In the interest of harmony there was virtually no opposition to the veteran statesman whose services as president of the senate had put him
in line for the presidency of the nation.

Tribute to Doumer

After the brief ceremony of investiture, M. Lebrun's first act was to start for Elysee Palace to pay his respects at the bier of his slain predecessor.

Then he was to go to the tomb of the unknown soldier and later in the day to the Luxembourg palace to receive the diplomatic corps
and high officials of the nation
when they made their calls of congratulation.

Indict Aviator
On Murder Count

(By Associated Press)
MIAMI, Fla., May 10.—Capt. W.
N. Lancaster, former British Army aviator, has been indicted for first degree murder in the strange shooting of Haden Clarke, fiancé of his flying partner, Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix.

The true bill against Lancaster
was returned by the Dade county
grand jury yesterday a week after his arrest on a murder warrant and Judge H. F. Atkinson ordered the flier held without bail for trial at circuit court term opening today.

The accused man accepted notification of his indictment calmly.
"Well, I'm innocent until I'm proven guilty," he told a deputy sheriff
after refusing to see newspapermen.

Studies Are Ended
At Center School

Center school, southwest of Salem, closed its winter term last Friday.

Closing exercises were featured
by a picnic dinner and program.
Accordian music was furnished
by John Ubersox and readings were given by eighth grade graduates.

A "Tom Thumb Wedding" added
interest and there were spelling
contests for the married women and children. Baseball games furnished amusement for the men and there were also contests for the women.

Sheriff On Trial

TOLEDO, May 10.—Charles G.
Emmert, former sheriff of Lucas county, charged with presenting false claims to county commissioners, will go on trial next Monday.

Pony Ride Fatal

COLUMBUS, May 1.—Carl Hicks, five, was injured fatally when he was thrown from a frightened
pony.

LARGER BALLOTS

200 Complaints On Election Board Ruling Made
In Akron

Despite adverse weather conditions this morning, 698 Salem electors had visited the 13 polls of the city to select Republican and Democratic candidates who will represent the parties in the November election. Election board officials were confident that the predicted
2,500 total for the city would be reached.

Precinct judges reported that slight delays were resulting in casting of votes because of the unusually large ballots.

1,800 In E. Liverpool

Approximately 1,800 electors had visited 25 voting precincts in East Liverpool at noon. Ballot officials there anticipated a total vote of more than 4,000.

The largest primary vote ever cast in Salem was recorded in August, 1931, in a municipal ballot fight when 2,415 were counted. In August, 1930, when state and county
primaries were held, the total vote
here was 2,639.

B precinct of the Fourth ward
had the highest number of votes at noon, with 85 Republican and 14
Democratic ballots. The lightest vote was reported from C precinct
of the Second ward where 17 Republican and two Democratic ballots had been cast.

Votes cast by G. O. P. partisans
outnumbered those cast by Democrats here almost nine to one.

BALLOTS PROVE UNWILDY

Delays Are Experienced In Polls
in Larger Cities

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., May 10.—Handicapped by unwieldy ballots in the larger counties, Ohio voters today were slow in casting their ballots in the primary election in which party
candidates for United States senators, congressmen and a host of county offices, will be chosen.
Delegates and alternates to the national conventions of the two parties also are being selected.

The only disturbances reported were in Akron where voters who last fall cast Democratic ballots for a popular candidate for a municipal judgeship were compelled by the election board to vote in the Democratic primary. More than 200 complaints were made to the election board against the ruling by noon today.

How They're Voting

Here's how the larger cities were voting about noon:

Akron, normal volume.

Toledo, voting slowed down by large ballots containing 139 to 150
names in various precincts.

Cleveland, early vote light. Drizzling rain. Expect from 50,000 to 60,000 Republican and 30,000 Democratic ballots.

Dayton, voting slightly heavier than normal but slowed up by large ballots.

Cincinnati, voting extremely light
during intermittent rains. Expect 50,000 Republican, and 7,000 Democratic ballots.

Columbus, about 10,000 votes cast
by noon. Expect between 45,000
and 60,000 during the day.

Sandusky and Erie counties,
heavy vote in both parties especially on Republican gubernatorial ticket due to wet and dry fight.

Vote Approval of Credit Union Plan

Directors of the Columbiana
county Farm bureau voted approval
of a plan to organize a credit union
among Farm bureau members at a recent meeting.

It was decided to hold the annual Farm bureau banquet in June, although no date was announced, and to conduct a membership campaign
during the same month.

Likes Darrow

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May

wife had a tougher time getting out of Honolulu than they did while there. I didn't read about anybody trying to stop

made a lot of friends over there.

I have known Darrow for a good many years, and always go to see him in Chicago. I knew William Jennings Bryan
many years; both men lived ahead of their times. Bryan in government and Darrow by believing that the under dog in

DO YOU INHALE?

Why are other cigarettes silent on this vital question?

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten people know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So be careful. Safeguard your delicate membranes!

Book Club, Guests Hear Needlework Art Discussion

Miss Margaret Tedy, needlework editor for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, spoke to members of the book club and their guests when the club observed its annual guest night with a dinner Monday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Robert Wilson, president of the club, welcomed the guests.

Miss Tedy has just returned from a trip to England, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Romania, Switzerland and France.

While in London she studied in the Royal School of Needlework, of which the Duchess of York is president. In this school she made the dresses for little Princess Elizabeth, granddaughter of the King and Queen of England. Miss Tedy displayed samples and designs she copied while studying in this school. These included Old English design—chain and outline stitch, quilt, embroidered in crewel work, fish scale design. She also had samples of needle point, needle and cross point embroidery.

The speaker related that she attended Queen Mary's London Needlework guild exhibit in the Victoria-Albert museum through special permission of Her Majesty, the queen. This exhibit was embroidery of different periods of English history, also Portuguese, Spanish, Italian, Russian, Persian and others.

Men of England also are noted in the realm of needlework, according to Miss Tedy. They became interested in this work after the war, she stated. It was a means of giving disabled soldiers something to do. Traveling teachers gave them lessons in hospitals and homes. Miss Tedy attended an exhibit in London called "contemporary needlecraft," all the work being done by men.

In England the speaker attended the Birmingham Arts and Crafts school. She displayed a number of pieces of Hungarian peasant embroidery.

Director Returns To Studio To Aid Artistic Career

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 10.—The question in Hollywood is whether an actor should be a director or a producer.

Joseph Von Sternberg, noted director who was well on his way to finding out the answer, gave up his quest "in the interest" of his artistic career.

Von Sternberg had been suspended by the Paramount studios for failure to produce a story which he considered unsuitable for the screen.

Today both artists were back on the payroll. Statements were issued by Miss Dietrich's attorney and Von Sternberg.

"Miss Dietrich has not her battle to be decided only by Mr. Von Sternberg," said Ralph Blum, attorney.

Von Sternberg, who "discovered" Miss Dietrich while she was appearing in German studios, said he still believes an artist has the right to refuse a story given him by a studio for production, that when he realized that the best might keep Miss Dietrich from the screen for a year during the litigation, he decided to settle his differences with the studio out of consideration for the interests of the star.

Butler Girls Club Will Retain Name

The Butler Sew Monthly 4-E club is to keep the name they have had for years, although some of the girls are now taking cooking, according to a decision made Saturday afternoon, May 7, at their meeting at the home of Alice and Rebecca Grandle.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY CONVIC-FRIDE INC. DISTRIBUTED BY NINE PLANETS SYNDICATE INC.

PREFACE

The Crime Without a Parallel

In cold patience and during long years, this fantastic plot was hatched. Conceived in audacity, and executed with rare boldness and dispatch, it was almost the perfect crime. At the time of this bizarre excitement, as some will remember, I was confidential secretary to Thatcher Colt, then Police Commissioner of Greater New York. In the Carewe case we encountered a problem unique and terrifying, a deadly enigma which Colt solved when to the rest of us all avenues of investigation appeared empty.

Yet in the Carewe mysteries, as in his other investigations, Thatcher Colt employed no miraculous gifts. He resorted to no magic except applied intelligence, relying invariably on strict police practice—industry, patience, perseverance, and the organized use of all available assistance, including the cooperation of scientists and their laboratories. As everyone knows, actual police work is seldom a garish exhibition of spectacular deduction. Crimes are solved and malefactors arrested by the use of common sense, persisted in until adventurous logic looks like inspiration.

CHAPTER ONE

Precisely at eleven-thirty o'clock on that snow-blown New Year's Eve, Thatcher Colt reached the Ritz Carlton Hotel. Through the revolving doors in East Forty-sixth Street hastened the Police Commissioner, immaculate in evening array and top hat. His large black eyes brightened when he found me waiting for him in the tiny red foyer.

"Sorry to pull you away from your family celebration, Tony," he apologized. "Hope your wife isn't cross with me for rigging you up?"

"We both realized it must be something exciting."

As the chief loosened his silkwaist muffer, his black eyes flashed at me a gleam of rueful mistrust.

"May be only a false alarm," he warned. "I was alone at home when Dougherty telephoned. The District Attorney was more than usually excited. Implored me to come at once—to the dancing club downstairs."

"Wouldn't the D. A. tell you what it was about?"

"Swore he didn't dare—over the wire. You don't suppose this could be another of Dougherty's efforts to rope me in on one of his everlasting parties?"

"As I looked at Thatcher Colt, tall,

STOCK MARKET

TRADE HEAVY

Price Changes Are Narrow; Several Leaders Hold Up

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 10.—The stock market was somewhat heavy in the early trading today.

Price changes were narrow, and several of the leaders held up well. A few blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares appeared, notably in the coppers and other low-priced issues. Kennecott sagged 1-4. A block of 5,000 shares of American radiator sold at 4 3/8-8, off 1-8.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel each lost about 12, and U. S. Steel preferred sagged a point during the first half hour. American Tobacco "B" lost a major fraction. American Telephone and Standard of N. J. were firm spots, up fractionally.

"Thatcher, I know how you dislike all this," apologized Dougherty, "but tonight, old man, you've got to trust me."

slender, black-haired, Miami-tanned, I felt a twinge of sympathy. True, the Police Commissioner of New York was not a party man. But Manhattan's favorite bachelor had not always been bored by social frivolities. His monastic life began only after the fickle lady of his fancy ran off with a contract champion. Since then Thatcher Colt had lost interest in his old world of gaiety and fashion. Born to money and social position, he put aside all distractions when he accepted the appointment as Police Commissioner. With an eagerness that was like an obsession, he plunged into the Department work and of the 19,000 policemen he commanded, Thatcher Colt was the best all-around athlete, the hardest worker, the most invincible crook-hunter.

"Let's find the District Attorney now—and remember, Tony, I don't want to stay long."

Neither of us dreamed how brief our stay was to be as we briskly descended the staircase at our right. A flight of red-carpeted steps led down under the pavement level to the fashionable East Side. From below rose the whine and croon of an orchestra, beating regularly through a vast discord of party voices. It was New Year's Eve at Mayfair.

Like nothing else in all New York is the dancing club Mayfair. At midnight every Saturday during the season, the stars of the theater and cinema, rather with prize-fighters, song writers, theatrical agents, stock-brokers and such in the Crystal Room of the Ritz. Here the ladies and gentlemen of the amusement world triumphantly display their gentility, until the atmosphere of refinement is almost painful.

While the coat-room girl garnered our dampened overcoats and top hats, we looked through the arched doorway into the Crystal Room. All was decorously festive within that expanse of mirrors, crystals, jewels and lights. The shows were out, and the players had changed costumes and make-up to hurry here for the death of one year and the birth of another. The broad room was overcrowded with table parties, except for a center oval of waxed oak, cleared for dancers. On a low platform at the rear wall, a troupe of boys with pale, elderly faces blew and scraped the mumbo-jumbo of jazz upon their strings and brass. In the warm air drifted the smells of women—powder and perfume and perspiration blending with tobacco smoke.

As we hesitated, the lumpy figure of Merle K. Dougherty appeared, lumbering rapidly toward us. The District Attorney was one of Colt's oldest and most unreasonable friends—a stout and noisy but competent man, with dangling jowls, a mop of red curls, and protruding blue eyes that always seemed indignant and alarmed.

"Thatcher, I know how you dislike all this," apologized Dougherty, panting as he shook hands. "But tonight, old man, you've got to trust me. This way!"

Through narrow twisting lanes of skylarking, show-folk the District Attorney led us with confident tread. As he had boasted, his table was on the edge of the dance floor. We sat down, Colt's grave eyes taking in the scene with one swift and lustrous glance. It was a jovial assemblage, and the excitement was palpably rising with the approach of the midnight hour.

"Well, Dougherty?"

In the Commissioner's question there was an over-tone of skeptical challenge.

"I'll come right to the point, Thatcher," promised Dougherty. "During the last two months, I have personally been conducting a highly secret criminal investigation."

"Jewel robberies!" stated Colt quietly.

Dougherty's eyes suddenly rolled upward.

"Who told you anything about that?" he demanded.

"Not the District Attorney," replied Thatcher Colt, mild reproof in his voice. The Commissioner had long felt that the functions of the police were too often usurped by the District Attorneys, not only in New York but in many other American cities. Recently Colt's objection was given eminent support by the Wickensham Law Enforcement Commission which condemned such interference.

"How much do you know about my investigation?" pouted Dougherty.

"We'll compare notes later. Go ahead!"

"Anyway, I don't have to tell you how many big jewel robberies have been pulled off in the last few months. The total runs into staggering figures. The insurance companies are on my neck—and yours. The thieves force their way into houses and apartments disguised as delivery men, mechanics—all sorts of ruses. Now, Thatcher, those jewel thieves are certainly in cahoots with somebody higher up—somebody who hob-nobs with the swells and plans the jobs!"

"Have you found a clue to this mysterious personality?"

Thatcher Colt's expression was amiable and interested; not by a flicker of an eyelid did he betray that the Headquarters jewel squad had been searching for the brains of the gem thieves for many exciting weeks, and were now ready to ask for the indictment of a downtown insurance broker and seven fellow-conspirators.

"Well, Thatcher," grinned Dougherty, "I think I have found the higher-up."

leaving six held by Peter Witt, Cleveland, supporter of Alfred E. Smith, and one by Newton D. Baker. Neither Coxey nor Ross offered delegates opposing President Hoover who was pledged 51 of the 55 Republican convention votes.

Interest centered on the contest for the Republican nominations for governor and United States senator in which prohibition was a clear-cut issue. United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, a wet, was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

But there was a five-cornered contest for the Republican nomination with four of the candidates either opposed to prohibition or labeled

"unsatisfactory" by its supporters. The lone dry candidate was Louis J. Taber who stressed economic conditions during his campaign. His chief rival was Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, who declared for a change in the liquor laws. The others were Coxey, Mrs. Elizabeth C. T. Miller of Cleveland and C. A. Bracher, Dayton.

Only two of the seven Republican and eleven Democratic candidates for the nominations for congress-man-at-large were endorsed by dry organizations.

In the state campaign, David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, assistant secretary of the navy for aviation, stressed prohibition as the leading issue in the governorship race. He sought the nomination in a four-cornered race with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and former Governor Myers Y. Cooper, both "satisfactory" to the anti-Saloon league, and James C. Beatty of East Liverpool who favors a "sixteen ounce glass of beer for a nickel."

On the Democratic side of the gubernatorial race, Governor White was opposed by Galen Starr Ross, Columbus lecturer. White, who favors a referendum on prohibition, was termed by the dry forces as having "no opposition." Ross favors modification of the liquor laws.

There were congressional contests in every district except the 20th where Martin L. Sweeney of Cleveland, the Democratic incumbent, had the field to himself.

Butcher Knife Is Used In Operation

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, O., May 10.—Although a surgeon's emergency operation with a butcher knife temporarily saved the life of Walter W. Precker, 38, the patient died last night from a heart attack induced by shock.

Dr. L. W. Potts found Precker unconscious when he arrived at the latter's home. Seeing that Precker's throat was nearly closed from the combined effects of a childhood operation and an attack of tonsillitis, the doctor acted quickly.

His surgical instruments were not available, so the doctor resorted to the family butcher knife, using it to open the patient's trachea just below the voice box so air could reach his lungs.

A fire department rescue squad also aided by administering oxygen through an improvised tube inserted in Precker's throat, and the man had a chance to recover until his heart stopped from the shock.

Book Club, Guests Hear Needlework Art Discussion

Miss Margaret Techy, needlework editor for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, spoke to members of the Book club and their guests when the club observed its annual Guest night with a dinner Monday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Robert Wilson, president of the club, welcomed the guests.

Miss Techy has just returned from a trip to England, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Switzerland and France.

Studied in London

While in London she studied in the Royal School of Needlework, of which the Duchess of York is president. In this school are made the dresses for little Princess Elizabeth, granddaughter of the King and Queen of England. Miss Techy displayed samples and designs she copied while studying in this school. These included Old English design—chain and outline stitch, quilts embroidered in crewel work, fish scale design. She also had samples of needle point, Petite and gross point embroidery.

The speaker related that she attended Queen Mary's London Needlework guild exhibits in the Victoria-Albert museum through special permission of Hon. Jean Bruce, lady in waiting of Queen Mary. In this exhibit were embroideries of different periods of English history, also Portuguese, Spanish, Italian, Hungarian Persian and others.

Men of England also are noted in the realm of fancywork, according to Miss Techy. They became interested in this work after the war, she stated. It was a means of giving disabled soldiers something to do. Traveling teachers gave them lessons in hospitals and homes. Miss Techy attended an exhibit in London called "contemporary needlecraft," all the work being done by men.

In Budapest the speaker attended the Hungarian Arts and Crafts school. She displayed a number of pieces of Hungarian peasant embroidery.

Music On Program

The musical part of the program was comprised of these numbers: Selections by a violin ensemble composed of John L. Hundertmark, Miss Camille Hoperick, Miss Christina Robinson, Miss Jean Olmhausen, The Visker; group of vocal solos, Joe Marsalia, accompanied by Prof. Allen; group of vocal solos, Mrs. Esther Odoran, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Berry.

This is always the clubs most distinctive social function of the year and there were 125 persons in attendance, members and guests. The dinner was served by Circle 4 of the Women's organization of the Methodist church. The tables were enhanced with spring flowers and green and yellow candles in crystal holders. The dining room was decorated with spring flowers.

The program for the meeting was arranged by the program and music committees composed of Mrs. Oliver Ashead, Mrs. Roy Harris, Mrs. George Votaw, Mrs. Wilbur Glass, Mrs. R. B. Snyder and Mrs. G. D. Keister.

Mrs. B. H. Calkins, Mrs. Frank Floding, Mrs. Cloyd Harris, Mrs. J. R. Stratton and Mrs. M. J. Buell make up the hospitality committee.

Director Returns To Studio to Aid Actress' Career

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 10.—The moot question in Hollywood—can an artist dictate to the studio?—remained unanswered today.

Joseph Von Sternberg, noted director, who was well on his way to finding out the answer, gave up his quest "in the interests" of Marlene Dietrich, the actress.

Von Sternberg had been suspended by the Paramount studios for failure to produce a story, which he considered unsuitable for the actress. Miss Dietrich refused to appear in the story after a substitute director was provided. She, too, was suspended.

Today, both artists were back on the payroll. Statements were issued by Miss Dietrich's attorney and Von Sternberg.

"Miss Dietrich has won her battle to be directed only by Mr. Von Sternberg," said Ralph Blum, attorney.

Von Sternberg, who "discovered" Miss Dietrich, who she was appearing in German studios, said he still believes an artist has the right to refuse a story given him by a studio for production, that when he "realized that the test might keep Miss Dietrich from the screen for a year during the litigation, I decided to settle my differences with the studio out of consideration for the interests of the star."

Butler Girls Club Will Retain Name

The Butler Sew Merrily 4-H club is to keep the name they have had for years, although some of the girls are now taking cooking, according to a decision made Saturday afternoon, May 7, at their meeting at the home of Alice and Rebecca Gamble.

Materials and record books were given out, and assignments made of reading in the manuals and work to be done before next meeting. The invitation of Bernice and Genesta Coppock was accepted for Saturday, May 28, at 3 p. m. Mrs. Gamble served refreshments after the business session.

ROSHOLT, Wis.—An old office safe, which had lain in a yard here since the day President McKinley was shot, was opened recently and found to contain $425. One of the coins was a silver dollar coined in 1833. The safe was in a fire which destroyed a mill here the day of the assassination at Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Anna Kozar of Evans City, Pa., matron of honor, was gowned in pink ruffled hat and accessories to harmonize. The bridesmaid, Miss Stephanie Hanzlick of Salem, wore a pink silk dress with a pink hat and matching accessories.

John Holskey, brother of the groom, was the best man and Joseph Novak was the other member of the bridal party.

After the service a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Holskey of Leontonia for relatives and friends.

Saturday evening there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kruk of Salem. Dancing was a diversion at both homes. The couple received beautiful gifts.

Mr. Holskey is employed by the Mullins Manufacturing corporation. Mr. and Mrs. Holskey will make their home with the groom's parents.

METHODIST WOMEN

The Women's organization of the Methodist Episcopal church will meet at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the church. Circle 5 will be in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Walker and daughter, Lillian, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horton, East Fourth st, spent Sunday in Massillon with friends.

Salem, Canfield Students at Oberlin Aid in "Convention"

OBERLIN, May 12.—"As Oberlin goes so goes the nation!" With this stirring battle-cry Oberlin students will convene for their 17th mock convention Friday, May 13. Democratic this year for the first time in the college's 68 years of convention history, Oberlin political prophets are anxiously considering which way the "Donkey" will jump.

Roosevelt, Smith and Baker appear so far to be the campus favorites. Garner sentiment is strong, thanks chiefly to Miss Gene Dell's of Canfield, (in photo above) head of the "Garner-for-President" club and the Texas delegation. Ritchie of Maryland, Murray of Oklahoma and Traylor of Illinois also have determined support.

Breckinridge Long of Washington, D. C., international lawyer and assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration, will be temporary chairman and deliver the keynote address the night of May 13. The permanent chairman Saturday will be Gordon Hayes, professor of economics at Ohio State University and Democratic candidate for congressman-at-large in Ohio.

An elaborate pre-convention parade, in costume, will step out to the music of five bands late tomorrow afternoon. Around 1200 students are taking part. A circus tent, the largest in the middle west, will be pitched on the campus to house 2500 people during the two nights' proceedings.

Miss Elizabeth Kerr, 1443 Cleveland st., Salem, a sophomore in Oberlin this year, will represent Ohio in the convention. Miss Margaret McKee, 242 North Unionway, a junior, will represent Nebraska, while Newell Portorff, a sophomore, will be a member of the Massachusetts delegation.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Parking Children's Toys.
"This can't be where the children sleep and play?" inquired the visiting grandmother, as she looked skeptically around the unnaturally tidy room, with its small twin beds, large bare table and few closed closets. "Haven't they any toys?" she pursued, in a pained voice.

With a dainty little kick under the bed, the proud mother revealed the explanation. It was a very flat but capacious box on rollers. Opened, it disclosed the usual pell-mell of children's toys, balls, blocks and mechanical contrivances, evidently stowed away in great haste. Not much order, but everything visible and easy to get at, because the flat box didn't permit piling one thing on top of another.

"This thing slides under the bed when not in use," the mother explained, "but it's so easy to pull out, that the children can get their toys and put them away themselves."

Franklin Square Couple Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Exten, Sr., well known residents of Franklin Square, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a family gathering Saturday at their home. Dinner was served at noon. There were 20 guests, those outside the family being Mr. and Mrs. John Haskins of Beaver, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Longbottom, who live near Franklin Square. Cakes were presented by the couple by Mrs. Haskins, Miss Ida Davis, Mrs. James Beavens and Frank Exten, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Exten, aged 77 and 76 years, respectively, are natives of England. Mr. Exten came from Wilshire, Warmister, England, to Franklin Square 53 years ago. Sophia Deverell was from South Wales and was married to Mr. Exten a few days after her arrival in America.

The couple were married at the home of his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Exten of Franklin Square by Rev. Pearson, pastor of the Leontonia Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. John Exten was an aunt of the bride.

Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Exten. Four of them are living and they were all at the celebration. They are: Mrs. James Beavens, Canton; Benjamin, Wadsworth; Frank Jr., Franklin Square, and Ray, of Columbiana. They have seven grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Exten have taken an active interest in the Franklin Square church, being among its oldest members, for many years.

They went to housekeeping in their present home and have always lived there with the exception of three years spent in Wadsworth, O.

The honorees received numerous cards and flowers.

'MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY'

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

PREFACE
The Crime Without a Parallel

In cold patience and during long years this fantastic plot was hatched. Conceived in audacity, and executed with rare boldness and dispatch, it was almost the perfect crime. At the time of this bizarre excitement, as some will remember, I was confidential secretary to Thatcher Colt, then Police Commissioner of Greater New York. In the Carewe case we encountered a problem unique and terrifying, a deadly enigma which Colt solved when to the rest of us all avenues of investigation appeared empty.

CHAPTER ONE

Precisely at eleven-thirty o'clock on that snow-blown New Year's Eve, Thatcher Colt reached the Ritz Carlton Hotel. Through the revolving doors in East Forty-sixth Street hastened the Police Commissioner, immaculate in evening array and top hat. His large black eyes brightened when he found me waiting for him in the tiny red foyer.

"Sorry to pull you away from your family celebration, Tony," he apologized. "Hope your wife isn't cross with me for rigging you up?"

"We both realized it must be something exciting." As the clock loosened his silken muffler, his black eyes flashed at me a gleam of rueful mistrust. "May be only a false alarm," he warned. "I was alone at home when Dougherty telephoned. The District Attorney was more than usually excited. Implored me to come at once—to the dancing club downstairs."

"Wouldn't the D. A. tell you what it was about?" "Swore he didn't dare—over the wire. You don't suppose this could be another of Dougherty's efforts to rope me in on one of his everlasting parties?"

As I looked at Thatcher Colt, tall,

"Thatcher, I know how you dislike all this," apologized Dougherty, "but tonight, old man, you've got to trust me."

slender, black-haired, Miami-tanned, I felt a twinge of sympathy. True, the Police Commissioner of New York was not a party man. But Manhattan's favorite bachelor had not always been bored by social frivolities. His monastic life began only after the fickle lady of his fancy ran off with a contract champion. Since then Thatcher Colt had lost interest in his old world of gaiety and fashion. Born to money and social position, he put aside all distractions when he accepted the appointment as Police Commissioner. With an eagerness that was like an obsession, he plunged into the Department work and of the 19,000 policemen he commanded, Thatcher Colt was the best all-around athlete, the hardest worker, the most invincible crook-hunter.

"Let's find the District Attorney now—and remember, Tony, I don't want to stay long." Neither of us dreamed how brief our stay was to be, as we briskly descended the staircase at our right. A flight of red-carpeted steps led down under the pavement level to the fashionable East Side. From below rose the whine and croon of an orchestra, beating regularly through a vast discord of party voices. It was New Year's Eve at Mayfair.

Like nothing else in all New York is the dancing club Mayfair. At midnight every Saturday during the season, the stars of the theater, the stars of the screen, the prize-fighters, song writers, theatrical agents, stock-brokers and such in the Crystal Room of the Ritz. Here the ladies and gentlemen of the amusement world triumphantly display their gentility, until the atmosphere of refinement is almost painful.

While the coat-room girl garnered our dampened overcoats and top hats, we looked through the arched doorway into the Crystal Room. All was decorously festive within that expanse of mirrors, crystals, jewels and lights. The shows were out, and the players had changed costumes and make-up to hurry here for the death of one year and the birth of another. The broad room was overcrowded with table parties, except for a center oval of waxed oak, cleared for dancers. On a low platform at the rear wall, a troupe of boys with pale, elderly faces blew and scraped the mumbo-jumbo of jazz upon their strings and brass. In the warm air drifted the smells of women—powder and perfume and perspiration blending with tobacco smoke.

As we hesitated, the lumpy figure of Merle K. Dougherty appeared, lumbering rapidly toward us. The District Attorney was one of Colt's oldest and most unreasonable friends—a stout and noisy but competent man, with dangling jowls, a mop of red curls, and protruding blue eyes that always seemed indignant and alarmed.

"Thatcher, I know how you dislike all this," apologized Dougherty, "but tonight, old man, you've got to trust me. This way!" Through narrow twisting lanes of skulking, show-folk the District Attorney led us with confident tread. As he had boasted, his table was on the edge of the dance floor. We sat down. Colt's grave eyes taking in the scene with one swift and lustrous glance. It was a jovial assemblage, and the excitement was palpably rising with the approach of the midnight hour.

"Well, Dougherty?" In the Commissioner's question there was an over-tone of skeptical challenge. "I'll come right to the point, Thatcher," promised Dougherty. "During the last two months, I have personally been conducting a highly secret criminal investigation."

"Jewel robberies?" stated Colt quietly.

Dougherty's eyes suddenly rolled upward.

"Who told you anything about that?" he demanded. "Not the District Attorney," replied Thatcher Colt, mild reproach in his voice. The Commissioner had long felt that the functions of the police were too often usurped by the District Attorneys, not only in New York but in many other American cities. Recently Colt's objection was given eminent support by the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission which condemned such interference.

"How much do you know about my investigation?" pouted Dougherty.

"We'll compare notes later. Go ahead!" "Anyway, I don't have to tell you how many big jewel robberies have been pulled off in the last few months. The total runs into staggering figures. The insurance companies are on my neck—and yours. The thieves force their way into houses and apartments disguised as delivery men, mechanics—all sorts of ruses. Now, Thatcher, those jewel thieves are certainly in cahoots with somebody higher up—somebody who hob-nobs with the swells and plans the jobs!"

"Have you found a clue to this mysterious personality?" Thatcher Colt's expression was amiable and interested; not by a flicker of an eyelid did he betray that the Headquarters jewel squad had been searching for the brains of the gem thieves for many exciting weeks, and were now ready to ask for the indictment of a downtown insurance broker and seven fellow-conspirators.

WET-DRY ISSUE SEEN AT POLLS

Million Buckeye Electors Expected To Cast Ballots Today

leaving six held by Peter Witt, Cleveland, supporter of Alfred E. Smith, and one by Newton D. Baker. Neither Coxey nor Ross offered delegates opposing President Hoover who was pledged 51 of the 53 Republican convention votes.

Interest centered on the contest for the Republican nomination for governor and United States senator in which prohibition was a clear-cut issue. United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, a wet, was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

But there was a five-cornered contest for the Republican nomination with four of the candidates either opposed to prohibition or labelled

"unsatisfactory" by its supporters. The lone dry candidate was Louis J. Taber, who stressed economic conditions during his campaign. His chief rival was Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, who declared for a change in the liquor laws. The others were Coxey, Mrs. Elizabeth C. T. Miller of Cleveland, and C. A. Bracher, Dayton.

Only two of the seven Republican and eleven Democratic candidates for the nominations for congressmen-at-large were endorsed by dry organizations.

In the state campaign David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, assistant secretary of the navy for aviation, stressed prohibition as the leading issue in the governorship race. He sought the nomination in a four-cornered race with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and former Governor Myers Y. Cooper, both "satisfactory" to the anti-Saloon league, and James C. Beatty of East Liverpool who favors a "sixteen ounce glass of beer for a nickel."

On the Democratic side, of the gubernatorial race, Governor White was opposed by Galen Starr Ross, Columbus lecturer. White, who favors a referendum on prohibition, was termed by the dry forces as having "no opposition." Ross favors modification of the liquor laws. There were congressional contests in every district except the 30th where Martin L. Sweeney of Cleveland, the Democratic incumbent, had the field to himself.

Butcher Knife Is Used In Operation

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, O., May 10.—Although a surgeon's emergency operation with a butcher knife temporarily saved the life of Walter W. Precker, 38, the patient died last night from a heart attack induced by shock.

Dr. I. W. Potts found Precker unconscious when he arrived at the latter's home. Seeing that Precker's throat was nearly closed from the combined effects of a childhood operation and an attack of tonsillitis, the doctor acted quickly.

His surgical instruments were not available, so the doctor resorted to the family butcher knife, using it to open the patient's trachea just below the voice box so air could reach his lungs.

A fire department rescue squad also aided by administering oxygen through an improvised tube inserted in Precker's throat, and the man had a chance to recover until his heart stopped from the shock.

East Palestine Will Defend County Track Title Here Saturday

THE DAY IN SPORTS

THE BIG PARADE of do-nothing officials who usually clutter up the sidelines at track fields has been banned from the Olympic games here July 30 to Aug. 4 by order of the official Olympic committee.

The efficient individuals (the white sweater crowd), which seemingly has nothing to do except to divert attention of the audience has been "ruled into the grandstands."

Olympic heads said that definite instructions had been received from the 14 international sports federations which will govern technical matters at the games, limiting the number of officials and their assistants for each event.

As a result spectators will have a chance to see "all of all races," without their views obstructed by the pseudo-officials who somehow manage to get bugged.

ONLY THE STARTERS and judges, with one or two regularly appointed cameramen, will be allowed on the track.

With international rules in force many new thrills were assured for onlookers. Judges will base many decisions partly on style and form of athletes and measurements in many instances will be closer than usual.

If a runner twice commits the offense of "jumping the gun" he will be ruled out. Time schedules for starting each event will be followed meticulously.

Fifty Olympic nations made up the rules. The best points of American, European, Asiatic and Australian sports handling were combined. Witnesses to other Olympic games said each nation would have much to learn from the practices adopted from the codes of the others.

BY BLASTING out two home runs at a recent game with St. Louis Earl Averill, slugging outfielder of the Cleveland Indians earned himself a namesake in Ash-ta-bu-la.

When John Peet, of Ash-ta-bu-la, became the father of his 14th child, a son, he decided to wait until some Indian hit a homer and name him after the ball player.

But the first homer was hit by Joe Vosmik, another outfielder for the Tribe, and since there were too many Joes in the Peet family already, that was out.

Johnny Hodapp, second baseman, later traded to Chicago, also was out of luck, for the Peet family had a surplus of Johns.

Then Averill went to bat one fine day and crashed out two circuit clouts. The new son was named Averill Louis Peet.

Dick Porter Peet, the 13th child, born on a Friday the 13th last year, received his name from Cleveland's first baseman in the same manner.

GREAT ATHLETES are born with a natural ability that coaching can improve but not create, according to members of the Ohio State University coaching staff.

Recent inquiry among the coaches has revealed that most of the Buckeye coaches are constantly on the lookout for candidates who have natural adaptation and prospects of developing into outstanding stars.

High school experience or training is unnecessary for candidates of college varsity teams, the coaches believe.

One of the most outstanding examples of the "natural" athlete was Iain Hoffman, captain of the Ohio State football squad in 1920, the coaches point out. Hoffman had never played football before entering Ohio State. He became one of the greatest tackles in the history of the school, however.

Such examples, however, are infrequent, due to the reluctance of athletes who have attained high school reputations.

The coaches also asserted that there have been many examples of an athlete with a marked ability in one sport learning that he is also proficient in another line of athletic endeavor.

When Wesley Feiler attended high school in Youngstown, his school maintained no baseball team. At Ohio State he continued his activities in football and basketball but forsook track for baseball. He became the outstanding star on the team.

"Chic" Harley, Ohio State's first all-American, had a high school reputation in football and track when he came to Ohio State. Maintaining participation in these sports, he also developed into one of the best baseball men in the school. He also earned his letter on the basketball squad.

Physical characteristics play a large part in making a so-called "natural" athlete, Ohio State coaches believe.

Jack Keller, who was pointed out, would not be as great a hurdler if his height did not match his speed. In the case of Capt. John Black of the track team, his superior form is not matched by the speed that Keller possesses, which accounts for the fact that he has been beaten by inches in many fast races.

Both men, however, have "natural" hurdling ability which coaching has greatly improved.

The New York Giant poked out 74 base hits in an 8-game series 1912. This is the record for safeties batted in a single series.

Quakers Regarded as Champions' Foremost Rival for 1932 Laurels

Columbiana county's outstanding spring athletic competition, the annual battle for supremacy on track and field between its schoolboy theinads, will engage interest of the district's fandom at Reilly athletic stadium Saturday.

East Palestine High, strong despite the graduation of several stars of a year ago, will be defending champion, fighting to retain the crown won in the 1931 competition. Salem High, also regarded as powerful, is predicted as the Brown and White's foremost challenger for the title.

Seven Schools To Compete

Seven schools, East Palestine, Salem, Lisbon, Wellsville, Columbiana, East Liverpool and Leetonia are expected to compete in Saturday's battle, bringing approximately 200 athletes to the local stadium. It is anticipated as one of the leading county meets held in recent years.

Palestine conclusively asserted its power in track and field by annexing the Geneva college Class C championship at Beaver Falls, Pa., Saturday, other county aggregations also winning major laurels. Added interest is being centered on the coming meet as a result of improved showings being made by smaller schools of the county, especially Columbiana and Leetonia.

1931 Meet Results

Palestine and Salem's Quakers staged a hot two-cornered fight for the title last year, the former winning out by a 51-46 score. It was the first time in seven years that the county championship was held by any other school than Salem.

Wellsville and Lisbon shared third honors, Columbiana ranking fourth, East Liverpool fifth and Leetonia sixth.

Where last year the Quaker team was weakened by the absence of four runners, sent to the Lakewood relays where they won honors in two events, setting a new record in one, Coach Floyd Stone this year will have his full array of strength available for action. Harold Walker and Wilford Brantingham, mile runners, Harold Horstman and Keith Harris, 880 experts, did not compete in the 1931 meet.

Star Athletes Entered

While the Red and Black and Palestine are figured as the two schools between whom titular competition will be centered, individual stars from other cities will be sharing the spotlight with entries from the favored schools.

Leetonia, with Patterson and Zack in the discus, Columbiana with Brumgard defending his 100-yd dash title and Lisbon with Blackburn in the high jump, pole vault and broad jump, should all score points in several events.

East Liverpool will send as its chief star Bob Fugate, star miler who won the 880 last year and placed second to Kenneth Wagonhauser of Leetonia as the latter set a new record of 4 min. 32 sec. Weekley and Kester are Wellsville's leading performers.

Palestine has a fine collection of athletes ready to send to the meet to combat with Quaker City talent. Intense but friendly rivalry between these schools alone is enough of an incentive to attract many hundreds of spectators from both cities. Their athletes will be involved in a great battle.

Slave Ship Recognized As Leading "Mudder" In Pimlico Preakness

(By Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, May 10.—If there is a muddy track next Saturday for the renewal of the $50,000 Preakness at Pimlico, Slave Ship, Walter M. Jeffords' hope will be sure to have backing as well as heavy footing, if he starts.

The black toney-light ship colt proved himself a good mudder yesterday in beating easily four other eligibles for the Maryland classic in the mile and sixteenth woodberry over a sloppy track in 1 minute, 48 3-5 seconds.

Slave Ship won handily from Open Hearth, a non-eligible, with M. L. Schwartz' Barcelona Pete, H. Teller Archibald's Westy Junior, Albert Bostwick's proteus and the Sage stable's paramour, all Preakness eligibles, trailing.

Slave Ship pulled up slightly lame at the end, and his trainers said his starting in the Saturday classic would depend on the extent of his injury.

Tick On At Track
Tick On, which finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, with J. J. Robinson's Lucky Tom arrived at Pimlico yesterday from Louisville, and are almost certain to start Saturday.

Paleno, the Belair Stud's eligible, has been declared out of the Preakness and shipped to New York, while the Glen Riddle Farm's War Hero was scratched from the woodberry because of a sore mouth, and placed under care of a veterinarian.

When Ferrell Meets Ferrell

Though they were on opposite sides, "Rick" Ferrell (left), catcher of the St. Louis Browns, and his brother, Wes, of the Cleveland Indians, found time to exchange brotherly greetings when they met for the first time this season at Cleveland, Ohio, when their teams clashed. Wes seems to be showing Rick how they juggle the ball in the Indian camp.

Sturdy Starts Vaulting With Clothes Pole at Home; Now Is U. S. Hope in Olympic Events

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of 12 articles on the 12 American hopes for the Olympic Games in Los Angeles this summer.

TODAY: Fred Sturdy.

BY STUART CAMERON

United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 10.—Fred Sturdy did his first vaulting with his mother's clothes-pole and now he's the predominant United States Olympic hope for a first place in his specialty.

Some time between now and June, when the eastern Olympic eliminations will be held at Harvard Stadium, Sturdy hopes to be able to find time between his classes at Yale Law School, his duties as night campus patrol officer and New Haven's city free legal aid bureau and final examinations, to get back into the 14-foot vaulting class.

Only four United States vaulters have officially topped the bar at 14 feet: Lee Barnes, U. S. C.; Bill Graber, U. S. C.; Sturdy and Ted Lee, of Yale. Barnes holds the record at 14 feet, 1 1/2 inches. Graber has reached 14 feet, 1/2 inch, and Sturdy crossed the bar at even 14 feet in his senior year at Yale College three years ago.

Vaulter Modest

Sturdy, modest to an extreme, has declined to predict what heights he would reach this summer—even refused to predict he would win his way through the trials to one of the three Olympic pole vault positions.

He listed the 13-foot jumpers, in order of their best marks: Barnes, Graber, Sturdy, Ted Lee, Yale; McDermott, Los Angeles, A. C.; Tom Warner, formerly of Northwestern University; Keith Brown, Yale; George Jefferson, Los Angeles A. C., and "one or two others out on the Coast."

The situation is complicated by the fact Sabin Carr, Yale's great pole vaulter of a few years back, may attempt a comeback. Jack Williams, a Pacific Coast vaulter of several years ago, is rumored to be in training.

Trains With Track Team

Sturdy is training with the Yale track team three days a week. He competes for the Los Angeles A. C. In the last four years he has competed 50 times and won his event in all but four meets. Since admiration for an older boy, whom he recalls as "Dick Reppath," led him to make his first pole vault out in Los Angeles, Sturdy has devoted himself toward perfecting his technique. Today at 24 he has what experts consider one of the best vaulting forms of any athlete.

Admiration for Reppath, a vaulter, led Fred, then 10 years old, to practice in his own back yard.

Later, when he entered Los Angeles High school, he was able to reach 8 feet, 6 inches. Under the training there of Harry Kirkpatrick, he boosted his height to 11 feet, 6 inches, in his senior high school year.

Fred went to Yale because his older brother had graduated at New Haven a few years ahead of him. There he encountered McGall, to whom he gives the most credit for improving his vaulting.

Carr Given Credit

Sturdy also gives a great deal of credit for his steady improvement to the influence of Sabin Carr, one year ahead of him.

The regimen of law school isn't conducive to the best athletic training—and Sturdy's case is made more difficult by the fact he is earning his way—but he manages to get in eight or nine hours of sleep a night. He has no special diet. "I just eat normally, except that I have an extra big breakfast," Sturdy hopes to become married in the fall—provided somebody want a good lawyer.

REYNOLDS HITS HOMER TO BEAT CLEVELAND ACE

Former Chicago Sox Star Proves Big Help To Washington Club

It hasn't taken Carl Reynolds long to convince his new employers, the Washington Senators, that they drove a very brisk bargain when they obtained him from the Chicago White Sox.

Big Help To Senators

The speedy outfielder, who joined the Senators in a trade involving the two veteran pitchers, Sam Jones and Irving Hadley, is in no small measure responsible for the fact that Walter Johnson's outfit is leading its closest American league rivals by three full games today. He's hitting at a 420 clip.

If he holds his present pace, he might easily make the difference between the pennant the Senators want and the third place they won last year.

Reynolds virtually was the whole show offensively at Washington yesterday's opener from Cleveland, 3 to 0. He was responsible for all three runs. He scored the first on a single and went home on an infield out. His homer, with Joe Cronin aboard settled the issue.

Other Games Postponed

Three other American league contests gave way to rain and cold.

The St. Louis Cardinals put on the day's best act in the National league when they scored three times in the ninth to hand the Brooklyn Dodgers their fourth straight defeat, 7 to 6.

At Cincinnati, the Reds pushed across a run in the ninth to down the Phillies, 4 to 3, and break up a pitchers duel between Owen Carroll and Ed Holley.

Fritz Knothe's single in the twelfth knocked two runs across and the Boston Braves staggered out with a 6 to 5 victory over Pittsburgh, their first in five starts in the west.

The Giants were rained out at Chicago.

Chicago Cast-Off Wins Regular Job On St. Louis Team

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 10.—Bruce Campbell couldn't win a regular berth in the Chicago Whitesox outfield but he can play for Bill Killefer's money.

The St. Louis Browns' pilot believes he has a genuine "find" in the big fellow who came to his club along with Pitcher Irving Hadley in the deal that sent "Red" Kress to the Whitesox.

Campbell, a six-footer who throws right-handed and bats left, had a tryout with the White Sox last year. He didn't make the grade and was farmed out on option.

This spring he was regarded as one of the most promising recruits in the league.

Campbell joined the Browns April 28 and was blanked at bat his first two games. Since then, however, he has pounded out 13 hits in eight games for an average of .379 and has been stopped only once.

News Through Camera's Eye

Will It Outspeed Bluebird?

Planning an attempt to win back the world's auto speed record for the United States, Barney Oldfield, veteran American speed king, is building a car which he hopes will better the mark of Sir Malcolm Campbell's "Bluebird." Barney is shown with the model of his challenger which, when completed will weigh 6,500 pounds, have 24 cylinders, 3,000 horse power and will be geared for six miles per minute. He is going to drive it himself.

Slain in Siege

Her run blazing wildly, Mrs. Ella May Thompson (above) of Los Angeles, emerged from her home, after besieging police had bombarded her with tear gas bombs, to be instantly killed by bullets from half a dozen police guns. Mrs. Thompson had fatally wounded an officer who went to investigate the complaint of a neighbor that Mrs. Thompson had fired at her. She is believed to have been crazed by drugs.

Sports Romance

A romance of great interest to the British sporting world was that of Eric Martin-Smith, winner of the British amateur golf championship in 1931, who recently married Mrs. Joan Surtees. The couple is shown after the ceremony had been performed in London.

AKRON BRAVES STORM, IS SAFE

Navy Dirigible Continues Western Flight; Sighted in Texas

SAN ANGELO, TEXAS, May 10.—Apparently having safely weathered a rain and electrical storm, the navy dirigible Akron was reported proceeding westward toward El Paso this morning.

Harrassed by the elements last night and early today in the region of San Angelo, the world's largest airship was thought to be heading to Randolph field at San Antonio.

Established Contact. The American Airways radio station at Dallas and the department of commerce station at Fort Worth, said they had established direct contact with the Akron and that it had passed over Dryden, Tex. This coincided with the report of a Southern Pacific railroad dispatcher in Los Angeles that the craft passed over Langtry, Tex., which is east of Dryden, an hour earlier.

The weather between Dryden and El Paso was reported good as the airship continued on to its Pacific coast destination. One thousand San Angelo men were assembled in a driving rain to land the giant airship after Homer Freed, World war veteran, said he had observed signals from the craft which he feared indicated she was in distress. He communicated with Randolph field the army's West Point of the air, and he said a message came later from the department of commerce office at Fort Worth asking that a landing crew be assembled.

Sighted Over El Dorado. The crew waited until 2 a. m. (3 a. m. in Salem) when the airship was sighted over El Dorado, 40 miles southeast of San Angelo, heading in the direction of San Antonio, and safety. Shortly after 3 a. m., the Akron was in communication with radio station KGUF of the American Airways at Love field in Dallas, obtaining a weather forecast.

While the department of commerce radio station, KKJ, at Fort Worth frequently was in communication with the Akron, it was not established that Commander C. E. Rosendahl ever had regarded the position of the craft with her 80 men as sufficiently dangerous to demand an emergency landing on a field which had no mooring mast or a hangar large enough to house it.

Seeking Presidency. Nominated by the Socialist-Labor Party as candidate for the White House in the 1932 election, Verne L. Reynolds (above), of New York, is a former steam-fitter and now owner of a newspaper advertising agency. Reynolds was the party's choice in the 1928 campaign and was re-nominated unanimously. His running mate is J. W. Aiken of Chelsea, Mass.

MT. CARMEL, Pa.—A mile ring-neck pheasant, flying from its accustomed haunts, crashed through a plate glass window in the business section here. The bird was stunned by the crash against the glass, but apparently was not injured.

Lost Flier Sought

Coast Guards, outgoing ships and National Guard fliers are scanning the Atlantic coastline for trace of W. Hamilton Lillie (above), World War flier of Newton, Mass., whose fate has been a mystery since his disappearance recently after leaving Boston Airport in a plane with fuel for only two hours' flying. Theory is that he may have flown out to sea until his gas supply was exhausted in a suicide attempt.

Chicago Snakes Can Grow Quickly

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 10.—Snakes that want to grow and get pickled might try Chicago.

A three foot boa found by a fruit dealer and delivered to the Chicago Academy of Sciences yesterday slipped out of the hands of Walter Necker, reptilian expert, and decided to hide among the stuffed owls and skeletons of pre-historic animals.

"We've lost a real constrictor," Necker told the janitor.

"They've lost a ten-foot boa constrictor," said the janitor as he ran up the stairs of a police station.

"There's a 15-foot boa constrictor loose in the building," Officer Axel Carlson told Officer Edward Nelson.

"There's an 18-foot boa constrictor loose in Lincoln park," Officer Nelson told Police Telephone Operator Clifford Wheeler.

"A 20-foot boa constrictor is loose in the park," Wheeler telephoned the newspapers.

Six policemen hurried to the scene. So did a group of news gatherers, but by the time they arrived the boa had been captured and pickled in alcohol by Necker.

Probe New Clue In Slaying of Nurse

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO, O., May 10.—A new clue in the slaying of Miss Winnifred Raftery, 22-year-old hospital worker, which was found in her diary, was investigated by police today.

It told how an unidentified man four times had tried to persuade the girl to ride in his automobile, and said he once accosted her not far from the place where her body was found last Thursday night. She had been assaulted and strangled after a desperate struggle.

Five suspects were viewed by 12 women who reported they had been annoyed, but they were unable to identify any of them.

Funeral services for the girl were held yesterday.

"SO BIG." Edna Ferber's epic of American womanhood, is the attraction of the State today. Barbara Stanwyck is magnificent in the starring role. The story of Selina Peake (Barbara Stanwyck), dramatic and utterly human, is told as Edna Ferber conceived it; the atmosphere is that of the book itself, the characters of the author's imagination have taken on flesh and blood. "So Big" is a triumph, no less.

One's memories are many as one leaves the theater, and all of them are rich and deep and moving. First and foremost is Barbara Stanwyck's portrayal of Selina—a great character, typically American, if ever fiction and the screen have known one. And one remembers George Brent, and Dickie Moore and the rest of the really great cast which surrounds one of the most admirable young actresses that the screen has been fortunate enough to find.
